

Im planning on doing a website that has info about different blizzard game characters such as stats and background . One idea is to make the different webpages different colors and color match them while keeping the webpage pretty simple. picture at the top with the game title and maybe some characters. Under that ill have some small blogg like info containers and a back to top button. In the footer ill have a blizzard logo and socials.